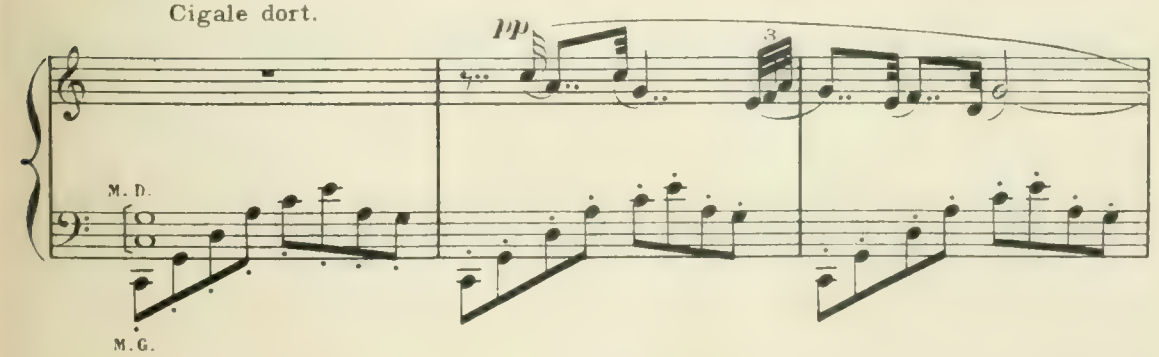
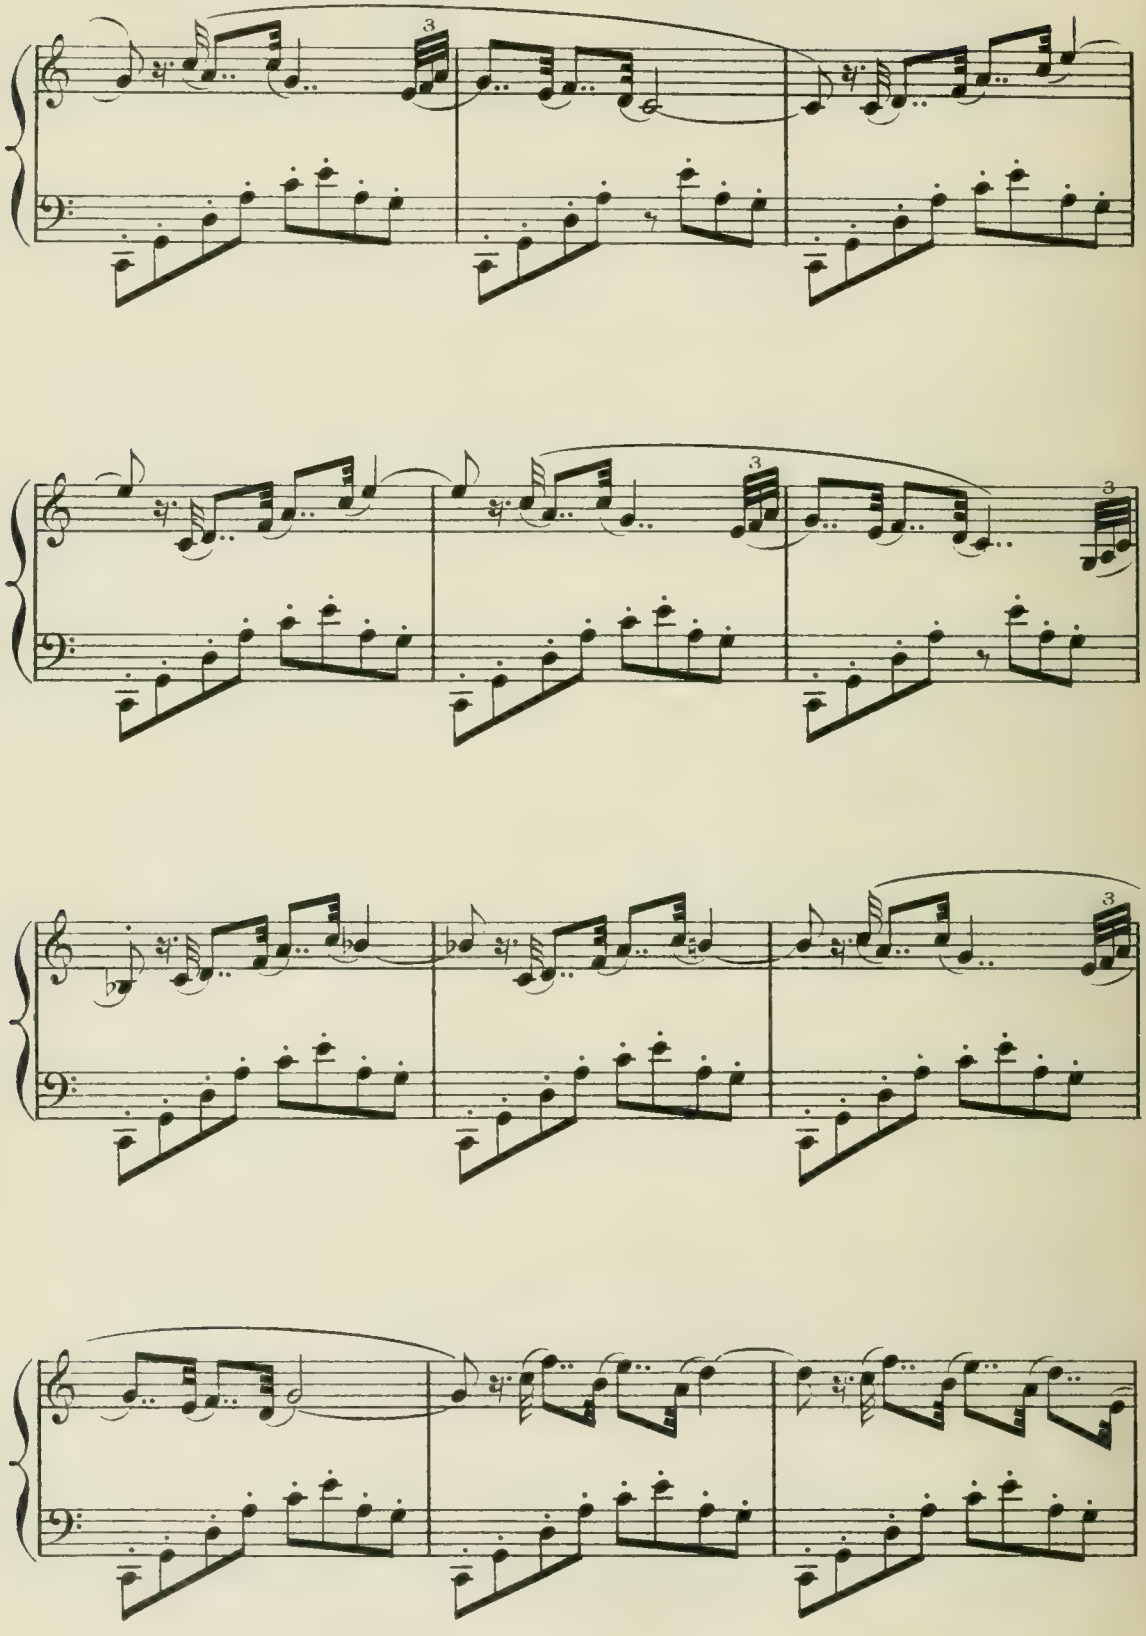
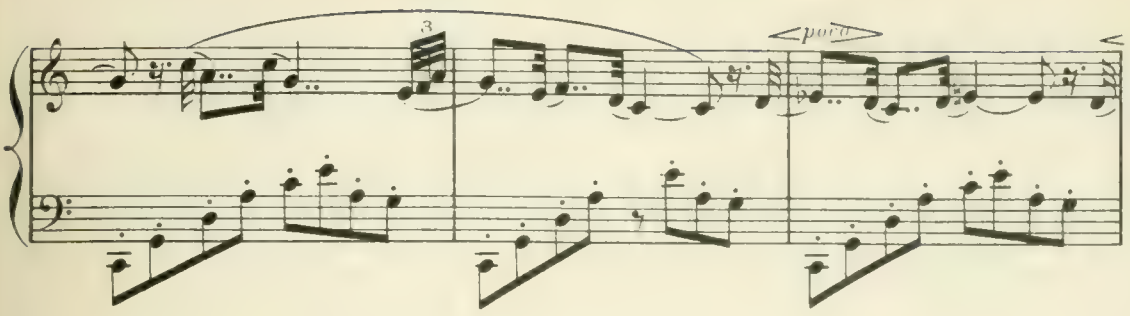
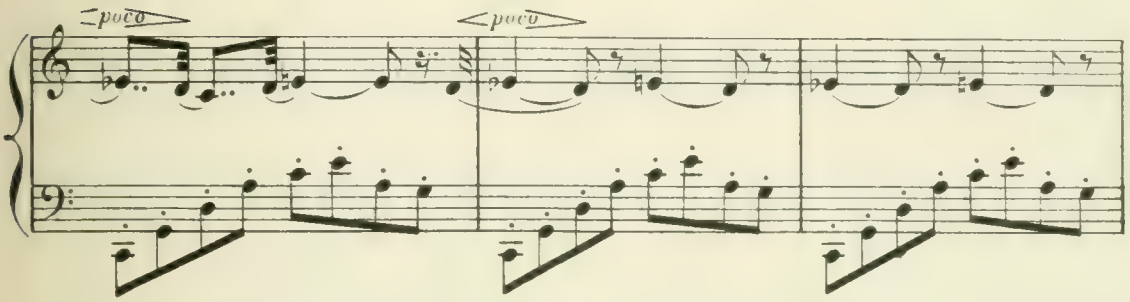
Intérieur très rustique; au fond, un petit lit de paysan dans son alcôve.
Cigale dort.



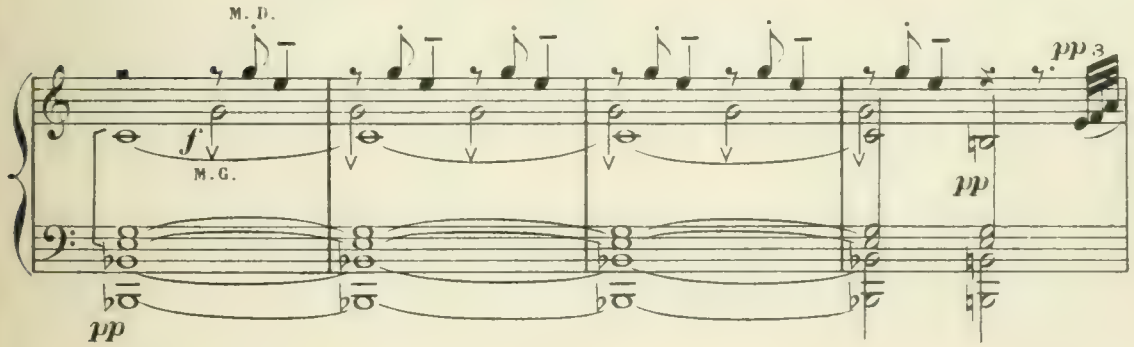
Au petit matin; les volets sont encore clos.







Le coucou sonne six heures.



Cigale s'éveille peu à peu; elle se frotte les yeux, s'étire...

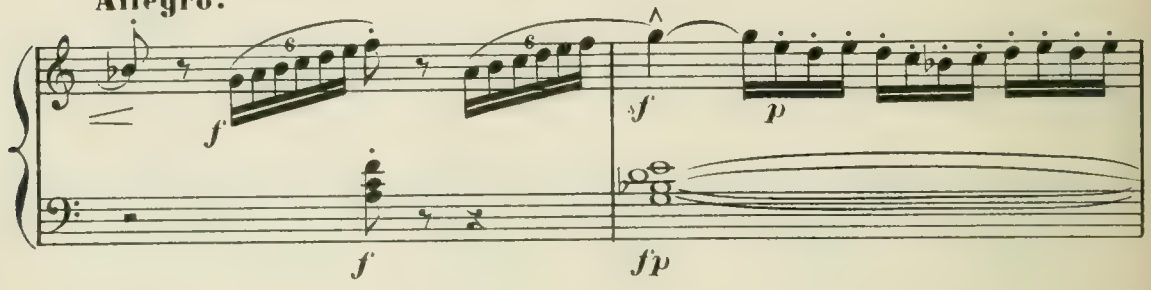
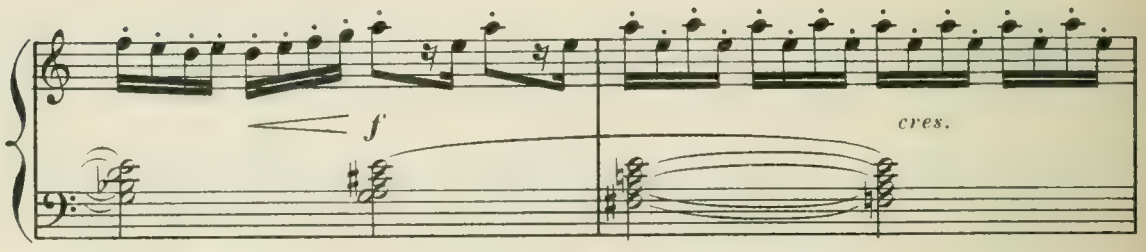
Elle saute de son dodo.



Elle entr'ouvre les volets.



Un clair rayon de soleil pénètre dans la chambrette.

Une jeune pauvrette s'arrête

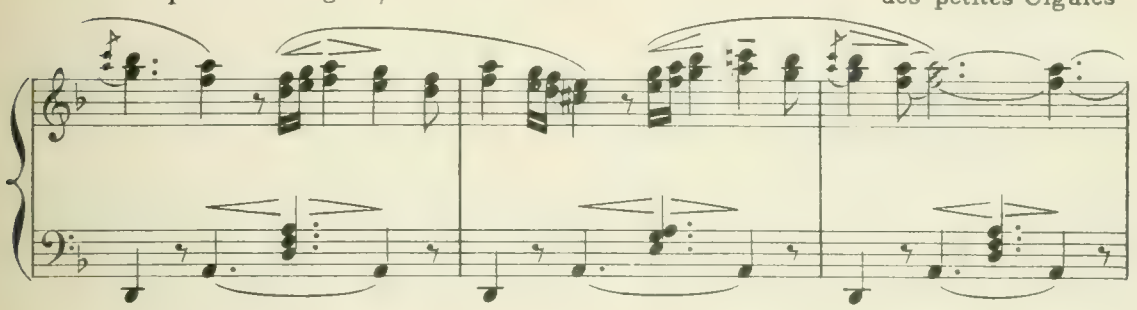
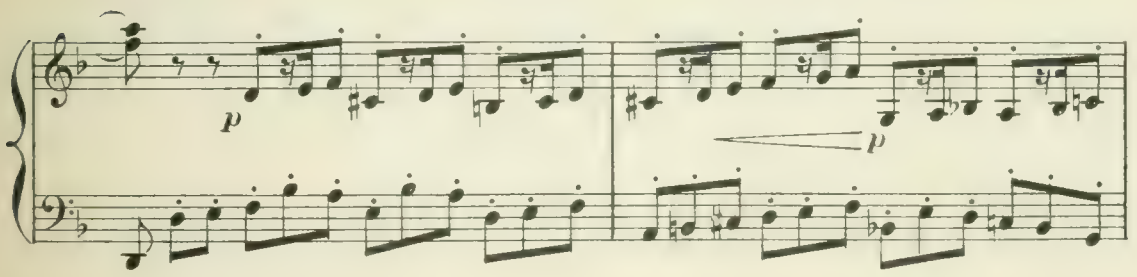
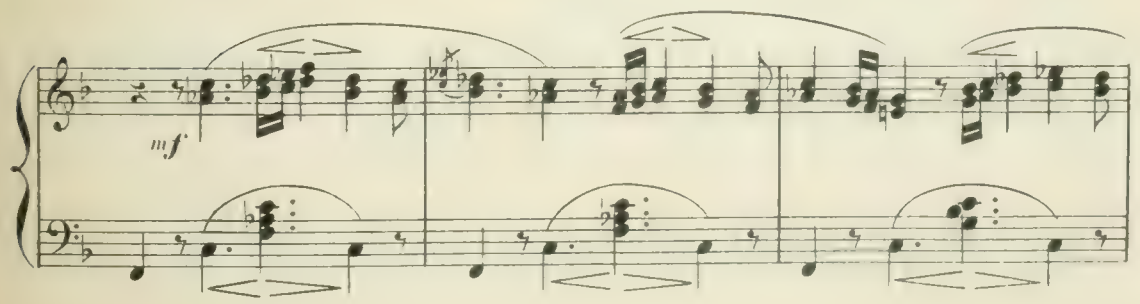
à la porte de Cigale; des petites Cigales



(des voisines) entourent la pauvrette et entrent à sa suite chez leur amie.



Cigale la recueille. La pauvrette a froid... elle lui donne sa mante...



La pauvrette a faim... elle lui apporte le pain et le lait dont elle allait faire son déjeûner du matin.

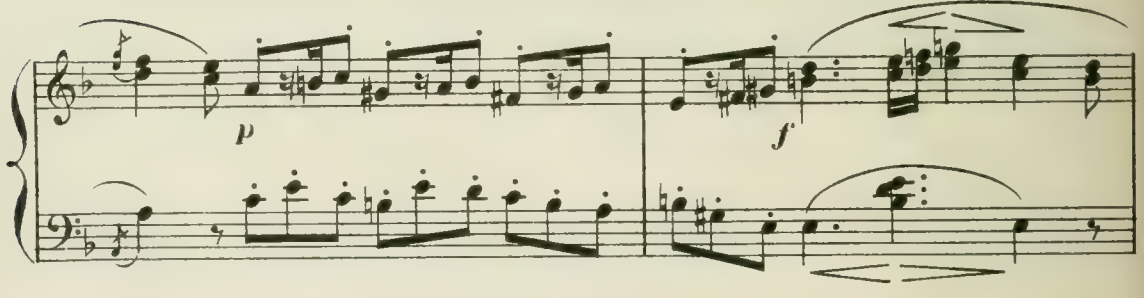
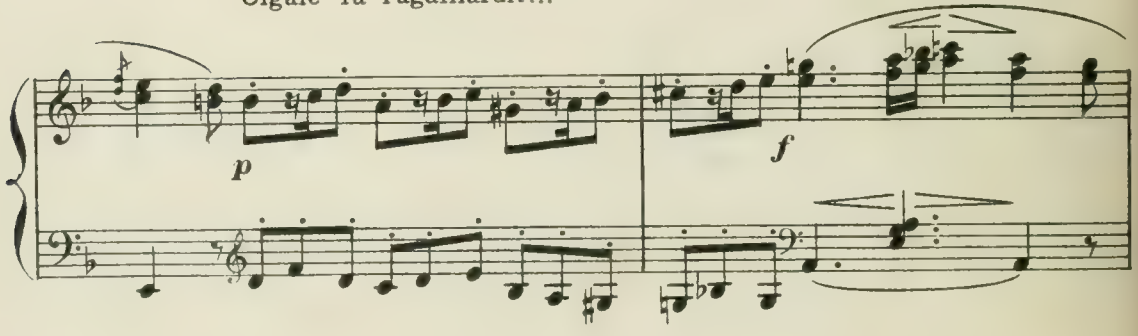
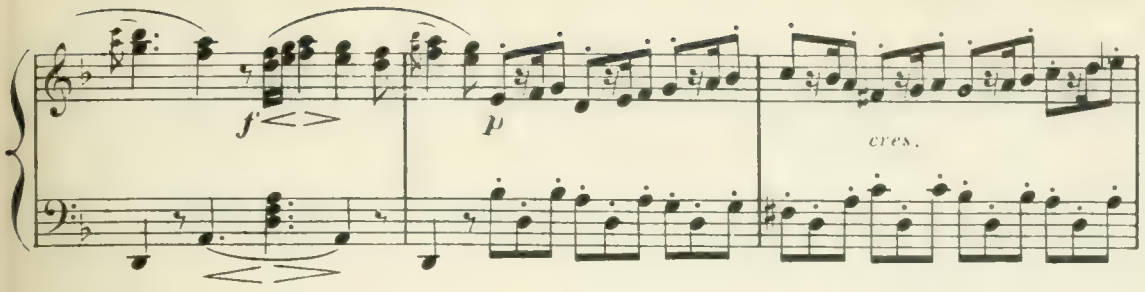
Tout en se mettant à manger, la pauvrette raconte ses peines de cœur...



Cigale la ragaillardit... la console...



et lui fait cadeau d'un beau



bonnet, qui la rendra encore plus jolie,... et du grand parapluie rouge, car l'averse du printemps vient d'obscurcir les rayons du soleil levant...

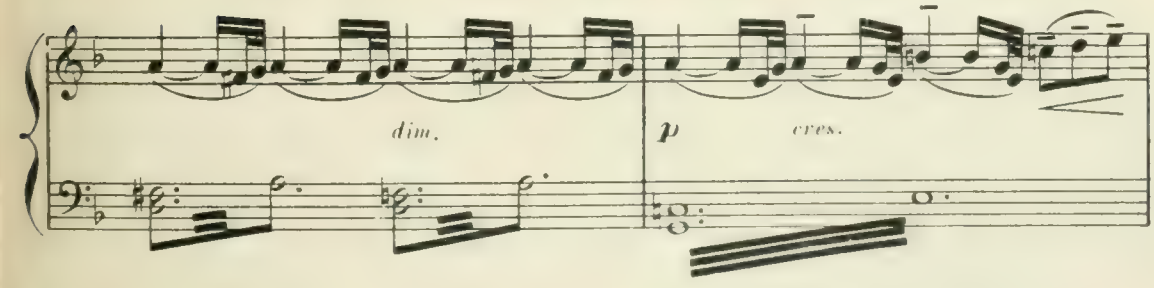
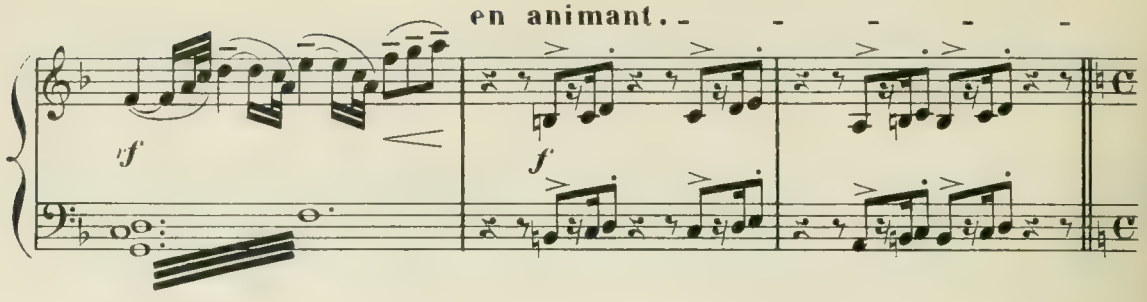
Elle s'efforce de dissiper les dernières tristesses de la pauvrette...



et l'engage à danser avec elle et avec ses amies!



Les Cigales entourent la pauvrette et lui font fête!

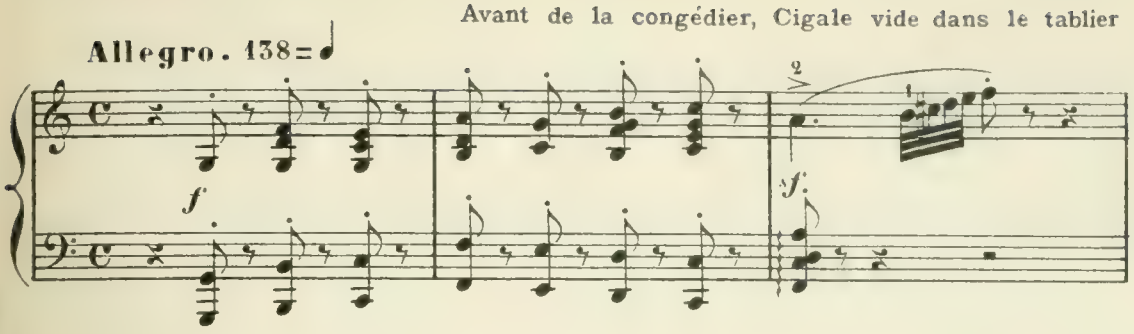
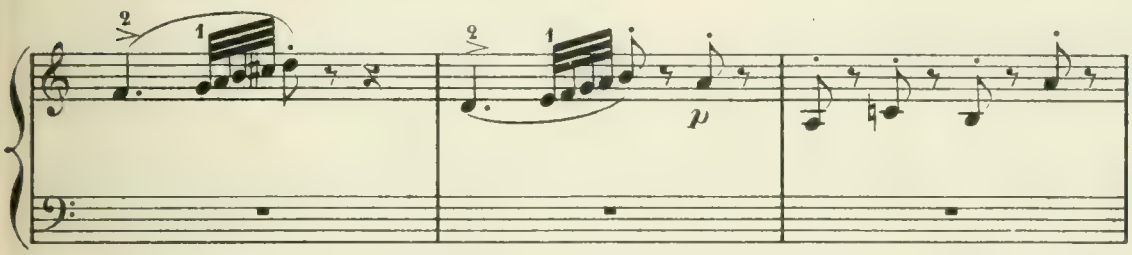
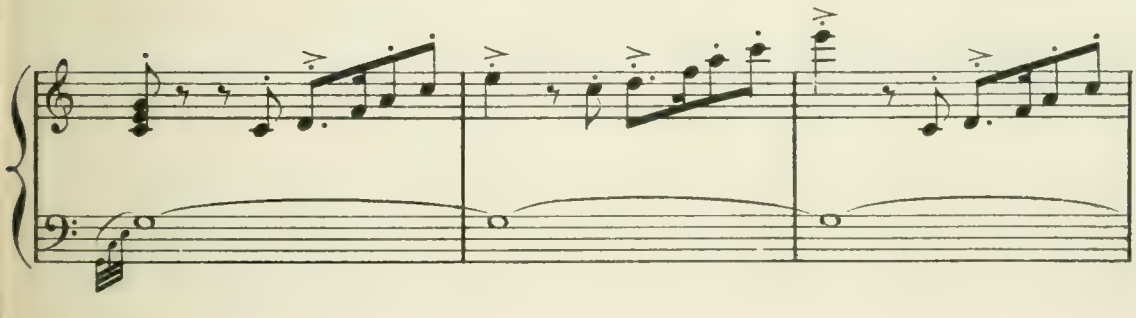
Avant de la congédier, Cigale vide dans le tablier



de la pauvrette sa bourse légère.



Mme Fourmi voit sortir



la pauvrette à laquelle Cigale envoie un adieu affectueux.

Avant de partir pour la messe, M.^me Fourmi ouvre ses narines, reniflant l'odeur du bon gâteau qui se dore dans le four.

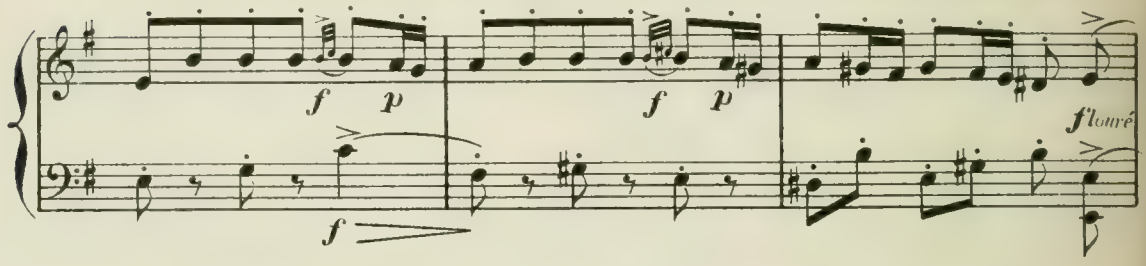
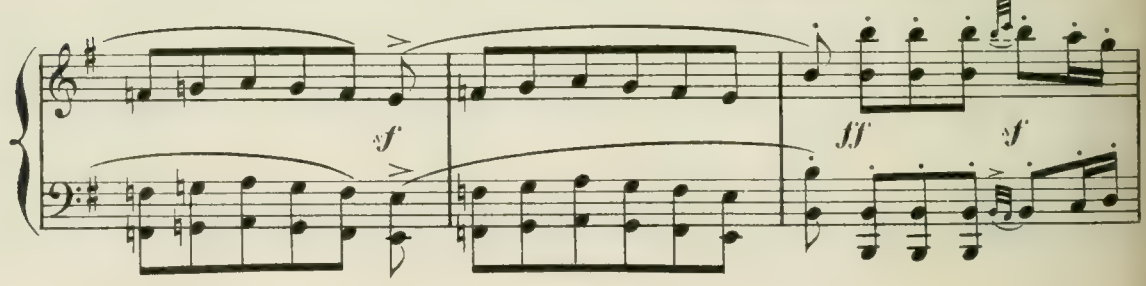
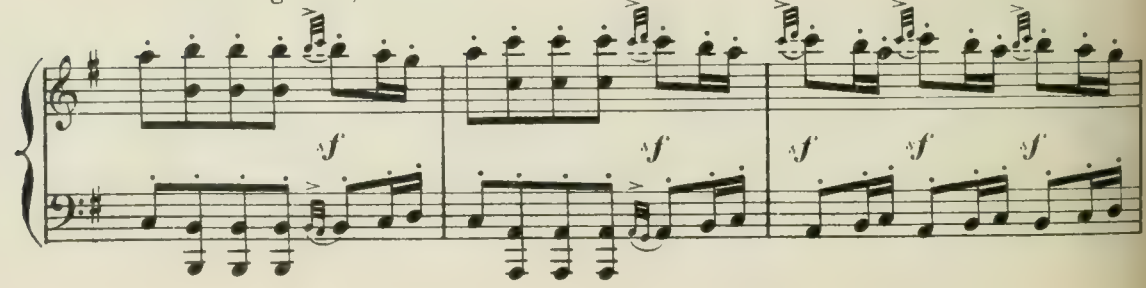
Les deux femmes ouvrent le four, s'avancent, reculent devant l'éclat du feu;



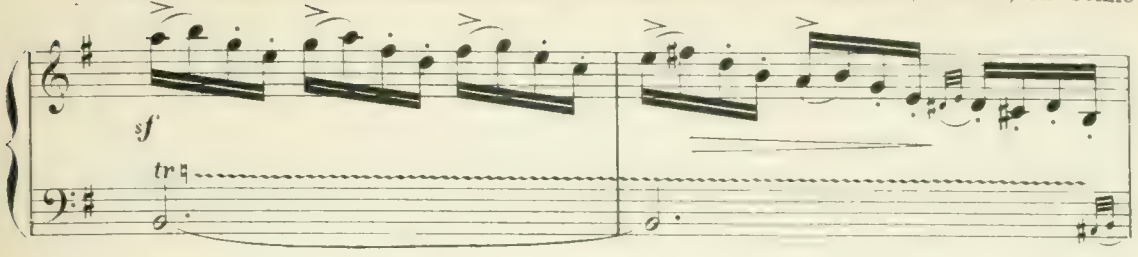
enfin, désenfournant une belle brioche, et comme M^me^ Fourmi s'extasie



devant le gâteau,



M^elle Cigale, bien qu'ayant faim et envie de la friandise, donne, en bonne



fille qu'elle est, la brioche à M^lle Fourmi qui l'emporte sans tarder en bénissant Cigale.

Cigale, après son départ, ne trouve plus pour elle qu'un morceau de pain sec et se verse, attristée, de l'eau pure dans un verre;

assise sur son petit escabeau, elle déjeûne.
